Hughenden Manor

Abstracts for free papers (maximum 1 side A4) should be e-mailed to cna.adams@btinternet.com by 31st March 2012. Papers are particularly welcomed from trainees, who, if selected, will receive free membership of the society for 1 year and an invitation to join the society at dinner.

The proposed accompanying persons' trip will be to Hughenden Manor, a National Trust Property which not only served as the country hideaway of Benjamin Disraeli, the most unlikely Victorian Prime Minister but also played host to a top-secret operation during World War II.

Hotel booking at preferential rate now available via link on History of Anaesthesia Society website or telephoning hotel directly (01189) 772550.
